

Lou-Anne Robertson, RN, BScN, MSCN

Short Professional Biography:

Lou-Anne Robertson, RN, BScN, MSCN, is a Multiple Sclerosis nurse at the Central Alberta Multiple Sclerosis Clinic in Red Deer, Alberta, Canada. A newly certified MS nurse, she brings specialized expertise and compassionate care to individuals living with MS, supporting patients through every step of their journey.

Brief Description of Your Project:

My project aims to enhance the recognition and certification of Multiple Sclerosis (MS) nurses by creating an engaging and informative video. The video will highlight the importance of MS nursing certification, its benefits for patient care, and the professional growth it offers to nurses. The goal of this initiative is to inspire and encourage more nurses to pursue certification, to serve as a resource of practical steps for obtaining certification, and to ultimately contribute to higher standards of care and improved outcomes for patients living with MS.
